People, without thought for the consequences, toss their rubbish on beaches not thinking ahead to what is gonna happen or where it will end up. Plastic that ends up in the ocean doesn't decompose and keeps floating around until either it washes up on the shore or is eaten by sea creatures. When sea animals find the rubbish they try to eat it or play with it which usually ends up fatal. There are bins made for the purpose of throwing your trash. We need to conserve and sustainably use the oceans, seas and marine resources for sustainable development. This is linked to the 14th goal "life below the water"
