

The Cleaner, The Better

Communal rubbish dump in Mangere, even though some of it is recyclable.

This patch of land has become a public dumping space. This links specifically to SDG 15, life on land. This rubbish is a health hazard, it harbors germs, it is not safe for humans or animals. One person dumped their rubbish, other people saw this and did the same. People are becoming desensitized to throwing rubbish in public places. This will become a generational habit which isn't confined to NZ. Providing free public recycling areas would encourage people to care for the environment, for themselves and future generations. If we reduce the amount of waste, we'll have a cleaner planet.
